03. Website Review

My first impression on the website is remarkable. It maintains a clear and precise, visually friendly outlook and convenient navigation. There is sufficient spacing and minimalist colour scheme which both appeal to the eye; Brief use of descriptions help keep the visitor engaged; and access to navigation panels make it easier to navigate across the site.

The homepage is attractive and presents a clear picture depicting the purpose of AMDT as "an educational institute that caters to specialising in multimedia and creative graphic designing". The programme options are presented in a brief, precise and clear manner to grasp on first notice. Sufficient

The only downsides to criticize would be some inconsistency noticed in spacing gaps between content in the homepage and the lack of elaborated content for those who would prefer to read more on course details. The website could have contained some more creative content to exhibit the degree of capability AMDT contains that would be shared to prospective students on enrolling in their courses.

In overall, the website maintains a concise manner of presenting AMDT as an attractive educational instituite that will help prospective students to learn a great deal of content and many viable options should they enroll with the organization. Therefore, I would recommend the application of this website to real-time deployment.
